

Home Nature

Tin Shui Wai

Tin Shui Wai was part of fish village in Hong Kong and a lot of fish ponds and migratory birds were easy to be found. After years, the place was rapidly developed and more urbanized. At the same time, Hong Kong Wetland Park was established to provide the habitat for various living things and this attracts people who love the nature to explore.

Though time goes by, the relationship between people and the nature still maintain strong bonding.

